Certification - DIN-Geprüft Biodegradable in Soil DIN-Geprüft Home Compostable.

DIN-Geprüft Biodegradable in Soil.

This certification refers to manufactured goods that are biodegradable in the soil. These goods include mulch films, materials or semi-finished items. Basis for testing is the DIN EN 17033:2018-03 and the certification scheme.

DIN-Geprüft Home Compostable.

DIN-Geprüft Home Compostable certification mark is awarded to products that can be composted at low temperatures, for example in the garden. These products can be for example shopping bags, packaging, and films or granulates. The basis for testing are the Australian national standard AS 5810, the French national standard NF T 51-800, and the certification scheme.

The mark that makes the difference.

Whether packaging or shopping bag - bioplastics are on everyone's mind.

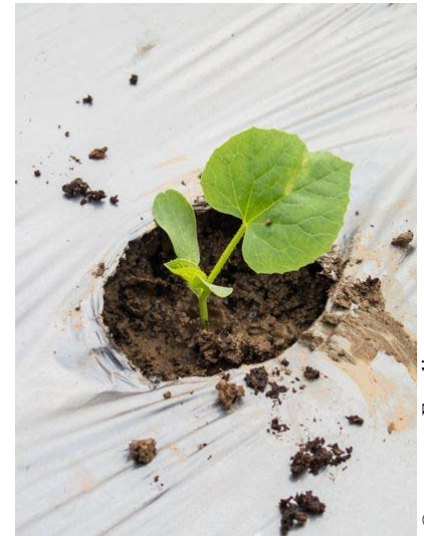

By using our independent certification marks, you as a manufacturer or supplier are proving that your products meet specified requirements and that they undergo regular inspections to ensure on going conformity to these requirements.

Transparency with regard to product quality makes it easier to identify high quality products throughout the supply chain. Your customers appreciate a reliable guide to help them in their decision-making process.

Openness and transparency.

Manufacturers of products certified by DIN CERTCO under these schemes will receive a certificate and the right to use the respective "DIN-Geprüft"-certification mark for a period of five years.

An up-to-date list of all holders of DIN CERTCO certificates can be found on the DIN CERTCO homepage. All documents, such as certification scheme, application form or schedule of fees can be accessed there.
